

NEWS

Ade and Co. find new home in Rocky Mountains

Coach moves with students from Chicago area to Colorado; Ward plots comeback

By Sarah S. Brannen, special to icenetnetwork.com

(05/15/2013) - Kori Ade has relocated to Colorado, with her students, family and new baby in tow.

Ade is coaching Jason Brown and Jordan Moeller, among others, at the Colorado Sports Center in Monument, Colo., about 20 miles north of Colorado Springs. Rohene Ward continues to coach and choreograph with her, and Ade said that dance coach Tiffany Dombeck has joined the group.

"I'm excited about building a program, and I couldn't be happier," Ade said. "I want to be where coaching is a passion and not just a job. I want to teach because I love teaching."

Ade, who had been coaching in the Chicago area, said that she had been looking for a new training environment for a while.

"I was fortunate enough to work at Lake Arrowhead for several summers, and I saw how the skaters would step it up when they were on the ice with high-level skaters," Ade said. "The rink I was at was really supportive, but I was on the ice alone, all day, every day. You don't think of Chicago as a destination for elite skaters the way you do with Colorado."

Ade cited the advantages her skaters have of training at altitude and having access to the Olympic Training Center (OTC).

"They have a lot of great sports medicine and information," she said. "And the opportunity to go to the dining hall and eat with elite athletes can't really be duplicated elsewhere."

"I love the environment," Brown said. "I love skating in Monument; it feels more like home. I can train the same way I did at home. Having access to the OTC is such a pro, and I'm trying to make the most of that resource."

Brown has been going to the Colorado Springs World Arena twice a week to work on jumps with Eddie Shipstad on the pole harness.

Moeller will join Ade's group in Colorado as soon as he finishes high school.

"I'm happy to have them go over and skate a national session, because they've earned the right to skate there," Ade said. "I want them to be around other boys who are doing quads and triple Axels."

"It's been great," said Brown, who moved to Colorado in March. "It feels so homey, and it's playing out better than I thought it would."

"I always have these fears: 'What will happen? How will I blend in?' It wasn't a flawless transition. With any move, it takes time. You can't totally submerge yourself in a new environment and be perfect from the start."

Kori Ade and Jason Brown have moved their base of operations to Monument, Colo. (Klaus-Reinhold Kany)

Facebook

Tweet

E-mail

Print

RELATED CONTENT

- Gallery: Brown's blog from JGP Final
- Milan mementos: Brown blogs from junior worlds
- Gardena glories: Moeller relays exploits from Italy
- Moeller's Midwesterners SP: Watch

TOP HEADLINES

- Chan draws on past in effort to win gold in Sochi
- Miner pays tribute to Boston with 'Glory'-ous free
- World Skater Rankings: Making sense of men's
- Hubbell's scope: Balancing program tweaks, yoga
- Orser preps students, psyche for Olympic season
- Aerial Ice delivers but falls short of 'AGT' semis
- Denney, Coughlin have luck, village on their side
- The next big thing? Precocious Chen turns heads
- Virtue, Moir debut jazzy quickstep in Quebec
- News Archive

"We're all getting more comfortable and getting into the swing of life and training again. Over time, it just got better and better. I truly love it."

Ade had to move not only her students but also her family; she has a young daughter and a new baby girl, born at the end of April. She said her husband, who works for Sears Holdings Corporation, agreed with the decision to move.

"He has a lot of empathy to my career," Ade said. "Colorado works for him. He said, 'All right, I want to do this and support you.'"

Ward, who choreographs for Brown and Moeller, is going to return to competition himself next season. He's planning to take the ice at the Broadmoor Open in June. Ade said she is listed as Ward's coach, but he does a lot of work on his own.

"I don't want to take too much credit, because he's one of the most talented guys ever," Ade said. "Coaching is more like consulting with him. He's giving it one more shot for the joy of being out on the ice -- he feels that it doesn't matter what he does out there.

"He's got to be one of the most brilliant choreographers I've ever seen. His long for Jason is unbelievable."

Brown is open to the notion of competing against his own choreographer next season.

"I don't think it will be weird," he said. "The weirdest part of it will be that he'll compete and then stand at the boards with Kori for me, in his costume!

"I don't think about it like competing against him. I think it will bring a fun energy."

9 Comments

Sort by Oldest

Add a comment...

Robert Mauti

Good luck to you all!:(:)).

Like · Reply · 1 · 5y

Deborah Harper Shipwash

Welcome to Monument. We are glad you are here and are excited to build our program at Colorado Sports Center!

Like · Reply · 3 · 5y

Jackie Ashley

Rohene Ward competing again sounds exciting. He is a very enjoyable skater to watch. Jason Brown is lovely as well. Good for both of them.

Like · Reply · 5y

Lauren Martinez

Best of luck! High altitude training, smart move!

Like · Reply · 5y

Lydia Magill

What a splendid opportunity. Glad for all - seems like it was just meant to happen!

Like · Reply · 5y

Carole Dale

I am as delighted and excited for Kor as I am grieving for the loss of the best coach I have ever known. I told Kori I cannot completely give her up. Will just have to follow Jason and Jordan out there for some training time each summer! And the bonus will be that I can check in with Rohene, who came to my rescue this year with his magical choreographic skills. Congratulations to all! I would say "good luck", but knowing how hard Kori and her students work, I know that their success is really dependent on their skill and drive. They don't leave anything to just "luck"!

Like · Reply · 1 · 5y

Sarah Crawford

I'm very happy and excited for Kori Ade, Jason Brown, and Rohene Ward and can't wait to see what they accomplish in the coming skating season. All the best to them!

Like · Reply · 5y

Angela Proper

What's Wards first name?

Like · Reply · 1 · 4y

Joan Turnbull Sabatino

What a thrill to see such a great local success. Who would have known when I stopped coaching 14 years ago that the lovely young woman I left some of my students in charge of is now at the Olympics. Congratulations Kori!

Like · Reply · 6 · 4y

Facebook Comments Plugin

About icenetwork.com Press Releases Help Center/Contact Us Blackout Restrictions
 Copyright © 2006 - 2018 Ice Network, LLC
 Use of the Website signifies your agreement to the Terms of Service and Privacy Policy.